Grand March Starts At Two O'Clock—McGuffin Descendants Head Line

Tomorrow is Old Timers Day in New Castle, when the ghost of many a valiant deed from the past will be resurrected and recalled, as the descendants of those pioneer citizens who founded New Castle and Lawrence County gather for their 35th annual picnic and program at Cascade Park.

The program will start promptly at 1:30 o'clock, although the doors of the pavilion will be open at 1 o'clock for the reception of visitors and a period of visitation before things get under way.

Grand March At Two
At 2 o'clock the Grand March will start, which will be led by Mrs.
George A. Carpenter, of Sheridan avenue, and George L. McGuffin, of Pittsburgh, descendants of Judge Lawrence L. McGuffin, the first judge of Lawrence county after its founding. Following will be those folks who have observed their 50th wedding anniversary, and other Old Timers wedded and single.

Afterwards there will be old fashioned round and square dancing, with Joe Brooks, who has done a splendid job in the past, calling the figures.

The first annual picnic of the Old Timers Association took place at Cascade Park, on August 23, 1907.
The executive committee at that time was Dr. J. K. Pollock, chairman, William T. Butz, Charles C.
Sankey, Wells B. Clendenin, Harvey
E. McGoun, Scott D. Long, and J.
S. DuShane, all of whom are now deceased. These men were the founders of the association, and the idea in those days was to take a lunch basket, filled with provisions, enjoyed dinner and supper in the grove, and commune together during the interim.

These founders planned better than they knew, for the attendance

Eight New Points Presented By Axis

Counter Roosevelt-Churchill
Peace Plan With One Of Their Own

(International News Service)
ROME, Aug. 19.—On behalf of the Rome-Berlin Axis, Roberto Farinacci, editor of the Regime Fascist today produced an 8-point Italo-German peace aim program in answer to the Roosevelt-Churchill declaration.

The plan follows:
1—Europe for the Europeans.
2—Control of Jews to prevent them from "doing harm."
3—Provision of raw materials for the German and Italian peoples.
4—Removal of "traitors" from key points of the sea routes (obviously Gibraltar and Suez).
5—Work as a substitute for gold.
6—Annihilation of Bolshevism and Plutocracy.
7—Liberation of Christianity from "impostors."
8—Establishment of a brotherly peace through dissemination of Axis political conceptions.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—President Roosevelt will go on the air shortly, if he heeds the importun-ings of some of his closest advisers, and give the nation an up-to-the-minute estimate of the general war situation and its probable effect on the United States.

There has been some suggestion, it was learned today, that the president accept one of the many invitations he has from the central states or the middle west and speak to an audience as well as the radio public.

Blunt Appraisal Certain of the White House

Certain of the White House intimates are urging that the chief executive should give the country a blunt appraisal of his findings at the now-famous high seas conference with British Prime Minister Winston Churchill—findings which have galvanized him into action on a number of fronts since his return.

These presidential friends have received disquieting reports of a spreading apathy to the defense program and the existence of poor morale in the army camps. In their opinion, a sense of false security based on failure to comprehend the dire consequences of a Nazi victory is responsible.

When Mr. Roosevelt returned to port from his meeting with Churchill he told reporters that the nation

MALVERN, Pa., Aug. 19.—Mrs.
George Jones, 65, of Hagerstown, Md., and Michael Parros, 18, of Altoona were killed and two other persons were injured today when their automobile collided with a heavily-laden furniture truck on Lincoln highway at Glen Loch, a mile west of Malvern.

The injured, both of whom were taken to Chester county hospital at West Chester are Mrs. Helen Parros, 41, and Thomas Arganas, 43, residents of Altoona.

The driver of the truck, Victor J.
Kennedy, 25, a Philadelphia Negro, escaped injury in the crash. He told police that he swung his truck around off the road and although he avoided a head-on collision, the front of the passenger car collided with the side of the truck. The entire roof of the automobile was tipped off.

The Parros boy was driving the car.

Lack Of Planning Blamed For Waste In Building Costs

House Committee Criticizes
Everybody Including
Congress

By JOSEPH A. BORS
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Lack of planning by everyone "including congress" was blamed today by a special house committee for excessive expenditure of at least $100-000,000 in the construction of camps for America's new army.

In a partial report filed by its chairman, Rep. Thomason (D. Tex.), a house military-naval affairs investigating committee declined to blame the war department alone for excessive costs of cantonments.

The report disclosed that war department experts admitted to the committee that "probably $100,000-000 could have been saved if the needs had been anticipated."

Committee recalled however, that since 1926 successive chiefs of staff of the army and secretaries of war warned congress that it was neglecting America's defenses, but that pleas for funds for the army went unheeded.

"It is more than obvious that congress must share with the army any censure for failing to foresee a situation that seems so clear today," the report declared.

"There is no doubt whatever that our state of preparedness was deplorable," the report continued, "but even so it is questionable whether under the circumstances this army or any army could have foreseen in detail what would be needed to combat the most effective fighting army in history."

Part of the excessive costs of army cantonments were attributed by the committee to the fact that many camps were constructed under "cost-plus-fixed-fee" contracts.

While it censured contractors for "wasteful practices," the committee held that "while the necessity was regrettable, the use of the cost-plus-fixed fee contract for the initial expansion was justified."

The report urged, however, that future contracts be let on a competitive basis.

Gas Dealers Wait For Ration Rules

Are Willing To Pro-Rate
Gasoline To Customers If Someone Tells Them
How

It looks like "first-come-first-served" will be the rule at most New Castle and Lawrence County gasoline filling stations when the fuel supply begins to dwindle, a check of scattered service stations indicated today.

When the shortage develops—if one develops—the average station owner is "just going to sell as they drive in, for that's all I can do unless other orders are given."

Care Of Regulars
If you are now a regular patron at some station, you'll stand a pretty good chance of getting a break. One or two of the stations plan to "take care" of regular buyers.

Today but one New Castle oil concern had definite instructions from headquarters "to begin reducing the gallonage to the stations." Other companies expected their orders sometime today.

To the dealer, the pump handlers, falls the job of doling out the gas as fairly as they can, and some of the station owners don't take to that assignment too well.

"It's going to be tough when you have no uniform system at the stations," he complained.

Predictions were made that "some stations" will be out of gas by the first of September.

Tenth Attack In Bellefonte Area Is Being Probed

Fiend As She Walks
Along Road

(International News Service)
BELLEFONTE, Pa., Aug. 19.—The 10th attack on young women in the Bellefonte area, today claimed 16-year-old Arlene Lyons, who was struck from behind as she walked along the road about a mile from Bellefonte, Centre county.

Pvt. James Griffith, of the State Motor police, investigating the attack, said the girl's assailant fled when her screams summoned nearby residents. The victim was admitted to the Bellefonte hospital where doctors reported severe lacerations of the lips and a cut on the back of her head.

Griffith said the attack was the 10th on women in the area since last December. Three similar molesta-tions were reported in State College in recent months and four women were attacked in Lock Haven, 30 miles distant.

State police still are investigating the sex-murder of Rachel Taylor, 17-year-old Pennsylvania State College coed, who was found murdered
in the Centre county hills in April, 1940.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—
Fire that destroyed records, oil, waters that closed over pitifully burned bodies, today held the key to the number of men—still uncounted but estimated at between 30 and 50—who perished in the holocaust that swept Brooklyn's Erie basin yesterday.

Five men were known to be dead. Still missing today as rescue and searching craft felt their way through the fogbound, windswept harbor were 50 others, many of whom may have been trapped in the fire-wrecked hulk of the New York and Cuba mail liner freighter Panuco.
More than 70 other men, mostly longshoremen, lay in nearby hospitals, under treatment for injuries ranging from serious to critical,
and possibly fatal.

Possibility of sabotage was still under investigation. Federal and local officials sought to learn why a fire so small that one workman said it "could have been put out with a pail of water," mushroomed into a raging inferno, punctuated by the cannonading of exploding oil drums, that swept a pier richly laden with American defense materials.

While agents of the Federal Bureau

Trade Resumption Appeal Rejected

No U.S. Cargoes For Expansion

Japan Eager To Restore Normal Trading Relations With United States

100 AMERICANS STILL BEING HELD

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The United States government, it was learned today, has in effect, rejected an appeal from Japan that normal trade relations be restored between this country and the Nippon empire.

Japan, in the course of diplomatic conversations aimed at clarification of this government's new hard-boiled far eastern policy, urged a resumption of normal trade relations.

To Stand Firm

In response to the Japanese appeal, this government has made it plain to Tokyo that it stands firm in its determination to prevent Japan from using the benefits of American trade for the purpose of strengthening the Nippon military machine for aggressive actions in the far east.

The United States has indicated that it is prepared to let Japan have enough crude oil and other materials for peaceful purposes, but that it is not disposed to resume commercial relations to the point where the Japanese militarists can obtain supplies for their expansionist aims.

Furthermore, it has been made unmistakably clear to Japan that this government intends to continue the imposition of drastic economic sanctions as long as the Nippon empire threatens further aggressive action in the far east.

Japan has been told, in effect, that if it refrains from threatening American, British, Dutch and Russian interests in the Pacific, it need have no fear of encirclement by those powers, but that if it plays for Germany in the Pacific the same role Italy played in the Mediterranean, it must take the consequences.

May Be Cautious

The firmness of the American government's stand has increased diplomatic tension between the two countries to a most delicate stage, but authoritative quarters in Washington still are inclined to believe Japan will follow a cautious policy and not risk a major clash with the western powers in the Pacific at this time.

The situation is regarded as aggravated by Japan's action in holding more than 100 American private citizens who wish to return home. However, the state department believes there is good reason to hope the strong representations made to Tokyo for release of the Americans will lead to an early arrangement for their transportation home.

Dispatch of a special American ship to Japan to pick up the American citizens, as well as 20 American officials who also wish to return home, is now being given active consideration by the state department.

Japan is showing considerable concern over the American aid that is being sent to Soviet Russia via Vladivostok, but this government takes the position that Tokyo has no cause to feel alarmed as long as it does not contemplate aggressive action against Russia.

URGE ROOSEVELT TO GIVE PEOPLE WAR SITUATION

should give ever-increasing consideration to the terrible plight of the countries successfully overrun by Hitler's armies, each of which in turn held hope to the last that its lot would be otherwise. He stressed again the methodical time-table progress of the German chancellor's effort to dominate the world, including eventually both North and South America.

The time has come again, President Roosevelt is being urged, for him to impress upon the country the dangers that lie ahead and tell the people how they must be met.

Spoke Generally

At his Rockland, Me., press conference last Saturday Mr. Roosevelt dealt in extreme generalities in reference to Churchill, who then was still running through the war zone back to England to report to his own people. Now that the prime minister is safely home, it is argued the president is free to speak and should do so. He may shed more light on the conference when he meets the full corps of Washington correspondents this afternoon for the first time in three weeks.

It has been most apparent at the White House in the last 24 hours that the understandings reached at the Roosevelt-Churchill conference are going to entail further sacrifices on the part of the American public. The president left Churchill on the H. M. S. Prince of Wales impressed with the British confidence of ultimate victory but fully cognizant of the long road ahead.

One of his first actions was announcement of a ferry system and transport service from the United States to West Africa that will immeasurably speed up delivery of war planes to the British forces in the middle east.

Mr. Roosevelt also warned congressional leaders, after a 90-minute accounting of his conference with the British war command, that in several weeks they could expect a supplementary budget message from him requesting more billions for British aid under the lease-lend program.

Reports from Capitol Hill were that the message, expected to be given congress after it ends its recess Sept. 15, will ask for an additional $5,000,000,000.

Invasion Coming

The congressional leaders were said to have been told that at the president's conference with Churchill it was agreed that a land invasion of Europe would be necessary to defeat Germany. There was no hint that the invasion would be attempted soon or that American forces would be involved, but it was intimated the British were looking for American help and that the attempt might be made in late 1942 or early 1943.

Invasion boats, dive bombers, tanks, guns and other war materials necessary for an invasion were included in the list of articles requested by the British minister of supply, Lord Beaverbrook, congressmen reported.

Optimism on the part of Russia to hold out against Germany was also expressed. The congressional leaders were told of plans of this country, Great Britain and Russia to pool their vast resources of materials and munitions in the fight against Germany.

The ferry system to the middle east is going to be operated by Pan American Airways system with government planes over a route that will avoid the zone of actual warfare, while the supplementary transport service also will be available for commercial purposes, providing direct air service from New York or Baltimore to Africa.

"The ferry system and the transport services," said the president, "provide direct and speedy delivery of aircraft from the arsenal of democracy to a critical point in the front against aggression. The importance of this direct line of communication between our country and strategic outposts in Africa cannot be overlooked."

hissing tomb for an unknown number of crew members and Stevedores as she lay on a mudbank in Butter-milk Channel.

Men Below Decks

Although the vessel had settled in 22 feet of water a mile off shore, fire tug officers reported that they still were unable to board the blazing ship. The number of men below the burning decks was not known. Line officials, however, said that 12 of the 35 members of the crew, including Capt. Henry Teske, were missing.

Pier 27, where the fire started yesterday noon, was nothing but a group of charred piles today. From the story of survivors, investigating officials determined that the fire had started at the south side of the 600-foot long dock among 36 bales of hemp and scores of full oil drums. The fire spread rapidly, setting ablaze the Panuco, moored at the north end of the pier, and 12 barges.

In addition to the inquiry conducted by G-men, the army and navy, a special three-man board, under direct orders of Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones to make an "immediate and sweeping investigation," was scheduled to meet in New York later today. The board consisted of J. Frank Staley of the department of justice, Capt. R. W. Dempwolf of the U. S. Coast Guard and Capt. George Fiedel of the Bureau of Marine Inspection and navigation of the commerce department.

Seized Ship

One hundred longshoremen were unloading the Panuco, recently seized in Mexico from the Italian owners, when the blaze broke out at 11:42 a. m. According to survivors a gigantic chrysanthemum of flame mushroomed into the sky, and within eight minutes the pier, the ship, and barges were enveloped in smoke.

The workers and members of the crew ran as best they could, some leaping into the channel, others along the smoldering stringpiece while still others hung to hawsers along the sides of the Panuco.

A ship's carpenter, a waiter and a fireman were almost scalded to death as they hung on hawsers against the hot sides of the ship. High pressure water from three fireboats turned to steam as it hit the beleaguered vessel. The men screamed, and the vessel was cut loose from her mooring, and pulled out into mid-channel. One of the fire tugs nosed alongside and rescued the trio.

Launches Rescue

Men or launches rescued scores of men from the water surrounding the flaming pier. Three men were taken from the river deck, a fourth died en route to the hospital, and the fifth known victim could be seen aboard the Panuco as she was towed two and a quarter miles to Butter-milk Channel flats. The complete toll will not be known until firemen and possibly divers are able to board the hulk of the vessel.

Although federal officials would not comment on their findings, Capt. John J. McCowan, in charge of the Brooklyn homicide squad, who participated in an inquiry conducted on a nearby pier as the flames were still raging, said he was "reasonably sure that the fire was not caused by sabotage." McCowan expressed the theory that the blaze might have been started by a workman stealing a forbidden smoke.

The livestock, poultry and other displays proved crowd-getters, too.

Wednesday and Thursday nights bring a horse pulling contest in front of the grandstand, and large attendances are anticipated for those events. Substantial purses are being offered for winning entries.

A pony race for the young will come with the regular harness racing tomorrow and Thursday afternoons.

Ready to give momentary aid in emergency is the Mobile Emergency unit of the New Castle fire department, which has assigned a corps of men to the showgrounds. Members of the First Aid squad will be on call for the three days.

Satisfied over the quality of exhibits and confident of the size of the three-day gate, Secretary-Manager A. Clyde Shoaf, pilot of the show for years, today predicted that this year's three-day exhibition would attract a crowd as large as most of the four-day shows.

Verify the QUALITY before you glorify the price

It's easy to believe you are getting a bargain in a diamond, especially if your attention is taken by the price. Many of the lower-grade diamonds are sold that way... by parading as bargains.

We believe, however, that the better quality diamonds offer you by far the best value for your money. There is no mystery about this. You can see their extra brilliance and beauty for yourself when you come in.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph.D.

FAMILY HAPPY ON $18 A WEEK

Yesterday, in this column, you read about the parents and two young children trying to get along on $18 a week. Now let me quote further from that mother's letter to show her resourcefulness.

"As for the general family atmosphere, my husband and I seldom quarrel, and never argue when the children are about. We enjoy each other and spend most of our time together. We have an income of $18 a week and so can't afford to go out. I have been visiting once since the baby was born. Of course my sister drops in during the day several times a week, and there's a young couple upstairs with a baby and she comes in, or occasionally I go up there and we talk over our babies.

Busy With Hobbies

We have hobbies which keep us quite busy and contented at home though I think an occasional outing would do us both good. My husband skates and how and then spends an evening with his brothers and sisters and their friends. But I can't skate and someone has to stay with the babies. I'm always glad to have him go, though. I can always find things to do while he is gone, and he doesn't often go out like that.

I write letters a good deal—it is much easier to sit down and type fifteen minutes or so than it is to dress myself and the babies and go out to visit. In the letters I have a social contact and the feeling that I have friends. In fact several of my letter contacts are very happy relationships and the exchange of ideas is stimulating.

Time For Relaxing

"I crochet, sew, mend and read a little. I try to take some time to myself during the day—time to be quiet and relaxed, even if it is only mending time. When I am up late I try to make up a little sleep during the day. I'm nervous too and I have to rest or I'd be so crabby there would be no living with me."

Replying to my answer to this letter the mother wrote: "I wish I could tell you what a lift your kind letter gave me." She added: "You say it is hard to imagine folks getting along so well on one income, but I know several folks that do and there must be others. One of my most satisfactory pen pals is a girl who has two youngsters between the ages of mine. Up until last summer, her husband was earning $20 a week at a florist. They had to pay $23 a month rent. Happily he is getting $24 now and may get a raise. So we weren't the only ones.

Reading Aloud

"My husband has improved considerably in his attitude toward Larry. He reads slowly and is self-conscious about reading aloud. I'm trying to get him to do other things with Larry, such as working in the garden and building things.

"My sister goes to the library regularly to get books for Larry. Thank you for the list. So far she has not been able to get many on this list but has brought some others by the authors listed and we have enjoyed them very much."

No, you don't have to be rich in order to be happy. Indeed, many parents with comfortable incomes might learn some lessons in the art of family happiness from this every unusual young mother whose letters have been an inspiration to all of us.

Solving Parent Problems

"My child in the first grade is a mirror writer—what he prints or writes looks correct only in the mirror."

A. Always when he prints or writes he will turn him to guide or direct his hand movements in the right direction. If you have a typewriter let him use it as you help him. He will see that it always prints from left to right. As you read to him slowly or have him read to you, run your finger from left to right beneath the words and phrases as they are read. Go on patiently helping him until he gets the correct association.

Q. How much sleep per night should a child 8 years old have? A child of 12?

A. At 11 and 10 hours, respectively. A chart giving desirable hours of sleep at various ages may be had without cost, by writing me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope.

RULE FOR GRANDPAS

An empty-handed grandpa is a sorry sight to see.

And he's something I am certain that a child should never see. Since a tragedy so dreadful childhood never understands.

Every grandpa worth the title should have something in his hands.

An empty-handed grandpa is a disappointment keen. He is either most forgetful or he's very, very mean.

Or he doesn't know the children, for the minute that he lands. A youngster's sure his grandpa will have something in his hands.

A lot of folks come calling and it's little that they bring. But a grandpa at the doorway is a very different thing!

And it's very, very tragic when your grandpa pays a call. To find him empty-handed as you greet him in the hall.

So I write this rule for grandpas: They must always keep in mind. The greatest joy of childhood is two grandpas who are kind.

And if looks of disappointment it will bother you to see. Then an empty-handed grandpa you must never, never be.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 6:52. Sun rises tomorrow 5:16.

This country is getting short on rubber. However it has not hit the rubber stamps in Washington.

Some people always keep a tight hand on their pocketbooks these days. It's also a good thing to hold onto the small change loose in the pocket.

Three years ago a college girl wrote 83 reasons why she hated men. Since then she has married and is a mother. It all makes a nice little story.

Robert Davis, correspondent of a New York newspaper, sat for several days with 17 men in the darkened storage quarters of a vessel bound for Europe.

For divers reasons, his companions were returning to their homelands to resume civilian life, despite the war. Each had made a little money in America. The group had much time for talk.

One man expressed his view of America in these words:

"In America they want you to work quick and good, both together. It can't be done. When I first opened my garage in Butte, Montana, a fellow would leave his car for a week or two. He'd say, 'Overhaul her good; tighten her up, grind the valves, change the rings.' Today they don't say that. They say, 'Shake a foot, Fritz; just dope her so she won't knock. I'll get a drink and be back in twenty minutes. I'm going to turn her in next week.' You can't work both good and quick. I'm here because I've quit trying."

Another, a Serb, said bitterly: "For coats is what is wrong with America. Fur coats, for women. It's got so that even the wife of a mechanic must have one. Then she must have what goes with a fur coat, above and below. Once a woman's got a fur coat everything scratches her skin except silk. A fur coat makes her health poor. She can't make the fire in the morning. The old man has to pack his own lunch and bring her coffee in bed before going to work. Seventy-five per cent of the family trouble in America comes from fur coats."

You always feel good after doing nice little things for people. The people you do them for also feel good.

The final test of poise is to sit and eat a bird or a mess of spaghetti while three people watch you.

Mention is made of a safety type of concrete, which dries hard before school is out, and thus escapes disfigurement.

There will be a great many visitors in New Castle this week. Treat them nice!

No doubt there will be bootlegging in silk stockings, etc., now.

There ought to be a more satisfactory way of getting acquainted than by seeing ourselves as others see us.

Today says a soldier doesn't lose his Constitutional rights. What about the right to tell every man where to go?

And there are people who are so stubborn that they won't even agree with the food they eat.

A new type of self-service store on the west coast permits the customer to sit on a stool while the goods pass before her on a belt. When she sees something she wants she pushes a button. Not quite perfect though—she has to push a button!

Maybe the happy woman in this country will be the one who finds out she will not have to worry about the runs in her silk stockings any more.

Under the law the pedestrian has the right of way to the hospital.

With lights out on the service stations these nights we get an idea of how we groped along in the dark before we had service stations.

What's What At A Glance

Defense Work Taking Many From Farms
Farm Labor Shortage Becomes Alarming
Adequate Food Supply Real Necessity

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Farm labor shortages, increasing alarmingly all over the country, aren't the result of expansion of military manpower, but may be traced directly to the demands of defense industries for men.

This is according to Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, newly appointed director of selective service.

General Hershey was a farmer long before he was a soldier. Born near Angola, Ind., he was a farmer's son and the descendant of generations of soil tillers. Although he left his parental acres for other fields, he's an agriculturalist at heart.

Naturally, he admits, the army has taken some young men from the land. A substantial number of rural lads have enlisted in our armed forces, without being conscripted, and Selective Service has caught quite a few. Nevertheless, says the general, the percentage of young farmers in our military establishment is small in comparison with the number who have left home to work in defense industries.

As for Selective Service, General Hershey emphasizes that his national organization has been cautioned repeatedly against inducing needed farm boys.

Furthermore, representatives of the agricultural department work constantly with Selective Service officials, advising them of farm problems. On the basis of a recent report by Agriculture Secretary Claude R. Wickard, all local boards have been warned that they must not interfere with production of our food supply.

Nevertheless, there's a growing shortage of farm labor because of the defense industries' rapid expansion.

Shortage Explained

The general tells why. The farm laborer is so darned valuable in a factory! He's skilled in the use of machinery.

"Times," observed General Hershey, "ain't now as they used to be, when a farm kid did nothing but push a plow. Today, in preparing the soil, planting seed and harvesting crops, he must be a mechanic. He must be able to handle and to repair, with meager facilities, the implements he uses. He must be skilled in the use of tractors and reapers and binders and all such devices—and to keep 'em in order. And he's got to be able to do it single-handed."

"It takes time to teach him and if, after he's educated, some urban industry cops him off, he's as much of a loss to farming as he would be if he's grabbed for military service."

"And urban industry has its attractions for him. Its wages are higher. Its hours are shorter. Soldiering may not have many inducements for him, but he can see the advantage of a good city job."

Food Supply Vital

"But an adequate food supply," observed the general, "is as essential a war material as fighting men are. So soldiering doesn't want to directly compete with industry and the farms for those agriculturally trained boys. We've got to have industrial workers for the production of guns and munitions, but we equally have got to have farm kids to feed our soldiers and our munitions makers too."

"What worries us, of the Selective Service, is not that farm boys are scarce, but that urban industry catches 'em first. It's more important for 'em than we are, and we're almost driven to scaring the boys off—to stay on their farms."

"The government has gone after about all the old metals except that along the highways in scrapped automobile bits."

The World and the Mud Puddles

JUST A HOP

When a man on the other side of the Atlantic suddenly decides to visit his wife and children over here on this continent, proceeds to jump into a plane, and next morning finds himself the center of attraction before the astonished eyes of his family, then we know sure this old earth is shrinking in size almost beyond recognition.

The recent surprise visit of Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands, who flew from London to Ottawa to visit his wife, Princess Juliana, and their two daughters, by no means broke any speed records. To the aviation specialist, it was a commonplace trip from the point of view of time.

But the fact that to the aviation expert, and probably to most of the rest of us as well, it was considered a casual event, shows how enormously the airplane has changed our notions of time, space and speed.

Surely a far cry from the day Orville and Wilbur Wright wrote history on a windy sweep of North Carolina less than thirty-eight years ago by making a weird box-like contraption actually fly a distance of one hundred twenty feet!

Daily Dozen

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

To say a woman is fair, fat and forty is a fallacy.

It is also a contradiction and a doubtful compliment. Fat people are not fair—in physical aspect or health prospects.

A fat person is not well, for obesity is a disease. Excess of body weight distinctly tends to shorten life.

High blood pressure, kidney and heart diseases affect fat people. Fat people are more subject to bronchial infection and asthma.

The overweight person is notoriously subject to pneumonia. There is close relationship between diabetes and obesity.

Posture defects and painful, tired feet accompany overweight. Obesity is, as a rule, a preventable disease.

Once developed, it yields satisfactorily to treatment.

Mrs. Andrew Wenneis, 79 years old, won first prize in "Grandma's Bathing Beauty Contest," recently held at New York's Coney Island resort.

The contest was planned as a publicity stunt and much laughter greeted the bevy of portly oldsters who competed for the prizes.

But behind the absurdity of the affair there was something glorious that only few could see.

It was the beauty of lives lived dutifully; the beauty of many years of loyalty and toil. It was the beauty of homes founded and maintained, of children and grandchildren reared.

There is one beauty that is skin-deep and faded quickly—another that lasts forever!

CRISIS IN RUSSIA

RUSSIA is now in her hour of travail. For more than seven weeks she has gallantly held off the German hordes in three important drives. Now there has come a change for the worse. The Nazis have broken through on the Southern front and are reported to have surrounded Odessa on the Black Sea, cutting off that important port from the rest of the Ukraine. Kiev, momentarily, is being encircled in a strategic drive toward the sea. Things do not look good for the Soviet right now.

But the capture of cities—even important cities—will not mean the total destruction of the Russian army. The Red forces for years have been trained for an eventuality such as this. The army has been given training in the art of mobility, the people in the "scorched earth" policy.

The fall of a city is bad, but not fatal, for the Russians have seen to it that the military production of supplies and equipment has been widely scattered on both sides of the Ural mountains. It will take more than the fall of Kiev or Odessa or even Leningrad to devitalize the fighting strength of the Soviets.

The fighting to date bears out the toughness of the Reds. When the Germans first pierced the Russian line they thought that it was all up with the Russian cause. The presumption was a little previous for the Soviets, in magnificent style, retreated to new fortifications, where an equally fierce stand was made against the invader.

If the Reds have not been demoralized by the gradual retreat, Hitler still has a long way to go to smash the army of the Soviets. Meanwhile, German war bulletins, which have become totally unreliable in the war on Russia should be recognized as lies by those who still read them.

OIL FOR THE EAST

Delivery of 250,000 barrels of oil per day to terminal points in New Jersey and Philadelphia by a pipe line system, financed by themselves and to cost some $80,000,000 is the prompt reaction of eleven oil companies—others may join in if they desire—to the petroleum shortage on the Atlantic seaboard.

The pipe line is made necessary by the turning over by the government of oil tankers to the British. This will not, of course, help solve the problem this fall and next winter, for the utmost speed will not see the line in operation before next summer.

If the war is of long duration the East will not be subjected to the shortages and hazards of water-borne transportation of gasoline and fuel oil. For the long future a continuous flow of oil from Texas, Oklahoma, Illinois, Kansas and Midcontinent areas will be assured.

Delay of utmost consequences has been obviated by passage of the Cole Pipe Line Act, which accords to necessary pipe lines the right of eminent domain. All that now delays start of construction is approval by government officials which would seem to be superfluous but which under present conditions must be obtained. Currently the proposal is in the hands of Ickes.

AN "EVER NORMAL" WORLD

Washington is concerned with providing American relief to a stricken world, once this war is ended. That may be looking a considerable distance ahead. But the Department of Agriculture announces that at a recent international wheat conference held at Washington an agreement was reached to set up a "large pool of relief wheat." Representatives of Argentina, Australia, Canada and Great Britain have submitted a draft of this agreement to their respective governments. If accepted, there will be enormous stocks of food available for post-war relief.

Here the humanitarian impulse arises from hard, practical considerations of self-interest. Under the expanded program of the Department of Agriculture stocks of various foodstuffs purchased here have shown a consistent rise since March 15, when purchases started. Now it appears that the 1941 American harvest will yield about 924,000,000 bushels of wheat. With domestic consumption at 653,000,000 bushels, this year's crop would add another 271,000,000 bushels to the existing surplus of about 1,000,000,000 bushels for the Western Hemisphere and Australia.

What to do with all this surplus wheat, as well as surpluses of feed, livestock, fats and other farm products? Part of it can go to meet the needs of American and British defense forces. Part of it can be shipped to war refugee areas, part transferred to other countries under the Lease-Lend Act and part can be used for domestic distribution. Where it is to be stored and processed is another question. The Department of Agriculture hopes that storage on individual farms can be arranged.

At all events, the principal objective, whatever the humanitarian impulse, is to maintain the prices of farm products, which are to be favored with an exemption from the price controls proposed for all other commodities. The "ever normal" granary is now to be internationalized, which is covering a lot of ground for a scheme to which there has been serious economic objection.

MT. HOLLY, N. J., Aug. 19.—While a group of 25 women stood helpless and horrified, Mrs. Etta Kellogg, 31, of Lenola was shot and critically wounded in a Mt. Holly hosiery mill today by a man who then turned the pistol on himself, committing suicide.

Walking into the seaming department on the second floor of the Holly Hosiery Mill, William L. Plack, 38, of Burlington, grabbed Mrs. Kellogg, whipped out a pistol and fired twice.

One bullet struck Mrs. Kellogg, who is the mother of two children, in the left arm and the other lodged in her spine, paralyzing her. Doctors at the Burlington County hospital said they do not expect her to live.

Until a month ago, Plack was employed at the Northampton Textile Mill in Mt. Holly. Coroner Russell Stoddard and police officials were unable to immediately establish the motive for the attempted murder and suicide.

Eighty-Ninth Birthday Observed

At the home of Mrs. Hannah M. Walls, of 401 Galbreath avenue, on Monday evening, all her children and grandchildren, in this community, gathered to help observe her eighty-ninth birthday anniversary.

Social chat was the diversion of the evening.

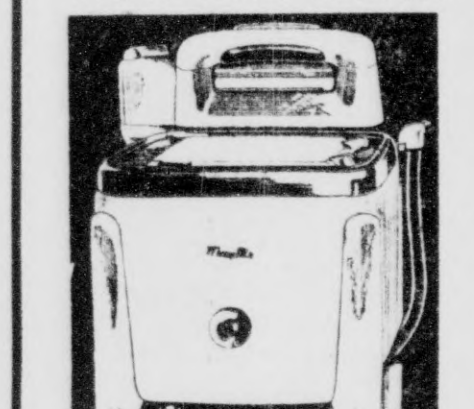

At a late hour, Mrs. William E. Kerr and Mrs. Percy Walls served a delightful lunch.

Mrs. Walls received many well wishing birthday cards, also nice gifts, and friends called throughout the day to extend their warm greetings.

Mrs. Walls is in fairly good health.

Opposes Effort At Stabilization Of Wage Scales

Richard Frankenstein, UAW
Leader Delivers Ultimatum Against Hillman
Plan

By JACK VINCENT
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Richard Frankenstein, leader of the CIO-UAW drive to organize the aircraft industry, today laid down an ultimatum to OPM Labor Director Sidney Hillman that the CIO-AFL wage stabilization conference proposed by Hillman.

Serves Notice
Frankenstein served notice on Hillman at a meeting between seven major aircraft makers of southern California, AFL union leaders and representatives of the army, navy, OPM and other government agencies. Frankenstein said that he was not interested in getting a joint wage stabilization agreement. He said that the CIO was willing to meet with representatives of localities where it had union locals but that there would be no joint wage stabilization as far as he is concerned.

Frankenstein's insistence that there be no joint wage stabilization agreement along the lines suggested by Hillman placed a cloud of uncertainty over the Hillman negotiations. The wage increases already offered by manufacturers, it is estimated by the army and navy, will increase the cost of planes now on order by more than $600,000,000.

Many of the plane makers have clauses in their contracts which will allow them to pass on increased wage costs to the government and the taxpayer. In other cases, if wages are increased through the stabilization program, it is reported that the army and navy have given manufacturers a tacit understanding that contracts will be adjusted.

This may force the army and navy to go back to congress and ask for deficiency appropriations to complete the planes now on order. At present the industry has a backlog of $5,130,000,000 worth of plane orders.

The wage stabilization conference, which was staged yesterday and continued through today, was called by Associate OPM Director Sidney Hillman. Attending it are officials of seven major aircraft companies on the Pacific coast, leaders of A. F. of L. and independent unions, and members of the OPM and the army and navy.

The CIO was invited but did not put in an appearance the first day. Frankenstein, leader of the CIO's united automobile workers union campaign to organize the aircraft industry, telegraphed Hillman that he was delayed in reaching Washington.

Truckers Hear Defense Head

Lt.-Col. W. Fulton Jackson Speaks To P. M. T. A.
Chapter Monday Night

Members of the Lawrence County chapter, Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association heard the workings of the Council of Defense plan Monday night at their dinner meeting in The Castleton hotel when Lt. Col. W. Fulton Jackson, executive director of the Lawrence County Council of Defense spoke.

Col. Jackson outlined the plan in general and explained just how every citizen could have a part in the various workings of the council. He reminded the truckers that the day might be approaching when their skill in transportation as well as their equipment might be needed.

At the close of his address the truckers voted to co-operate to the fullest extent with the defense plan and reaffirmed their pledge given to the War Department some months ago of standing ready to use their men and equipment at any time for the defense program.

Judge Charles Matthews, Jr. was a guest at the dinner and acknowledged an introduction.

Lord Beaverbrook White House Guest

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Formal White House announcement that Lord Beaverbrook, British minister of supply would be a luncheon guest of President Roosevelt today cleared up the "mystery" over the elusive Briton's whereabouts.

It was also announced at the OPM that Beaverbrook would confer during the day with OPM Director William S. Knudsen, Sidney Hillman and secretaries of war Stimson and navy Knox.

Shortly after the White House luncheon announcement the British embassy revealed that Beaverbrook would leave his swanky quarters at the Mayflower hotel and would lodge at the embassy during the remainder of his Washington visit.

Earlier the embassy said that the British cabinet minister's whereabouts were unknown, and the White House said that Beaverbrook would be a luncheon guest, "if he could be found."

R. A. F. Continues Battering Reich

Spread Destruction In German Cities With Relentless Bombing

By MERRILL MUELLER
International News Service Special
Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 19.—One of the most relentless R.A.F. attacks of recent weeks on the Reich and France roared beyond its 24th hour today as daylight raiders carried on the destruction of great waves of night bombers.

While Soviet bombing planes attacked eastern Germany, the R.A.F. repeated its nightly blows against the western Reich and hammered targets in France almost ceaselessly from yesterday afternoon on.

Night attacks were directed frequently-bombed Cologne and Duisburg. "Large fires" said the air ministry, were started in the German industrial centers.

Hit Dunkirk

Dunkirk was the focal point of the attacks on France.

Eight British bombers were lost in the attacks, directed largely against airdromes in Germany and Nazi-occupied territories.

Bombing operations, according to the air ministry, last night were on a small scale.

German bombs were dropped on northeast Scotland and two places in northeast England, where a small number of casualties were caused. The area was the same as that raided the previous night, when the Nazis resumed blitz assaults with the port of Hull as the main victim.

Beginning in the afternoon, the R. A. F. began streaming across the English Channel in ever-increasing numbers. By late night observers on the channel coast said the sky at times was a "mass of bursting shells, flaming 'onions,' and fires leaping up from the French shore."

One immense fire was started and burned for a long time.

After the usual attack on the coast, fainter bomb bursts were heard indicating that the R. A. F. dashed deeply into France.

At some periods during the early night hours, watchers on the English cliffs said, the sky was "filled with planes."

During the afternoon strong fleets of fighter and bomber planes struck at industrial plants in the Lille region and other French targets. Other R. A. F. formations carried out a sweep over the coast of northern Brittany and attacked German airports.

Calls For 50,000 New Nurses To Aid In Defense Crisis

Current Emergency Demands
Training Of Group, Dr.
Parran Says

Surgeon General Thomas Parran of the United States public health service today called for 50,000 well educated young women to begin training this fall for professional nursing careers in order to "avert serious damage to the nation's health during the present emergency."

Doctor Parran declared that this large number of students is needed to meet the tremendous demand for graduate registered nurses as a result of the national defense program. Student nurses actually contribute valuable service shortly after entering schools of nursing, and thus would relieve more staff nurses in civilian hospitals to assume defense duties, he pointed out.

The states relations division of the United States public health service, under Doctor Parran's direction is administering a recent congressional appropriation of $1,250,000 which will facilitate training of these additional nurses.

Activities Are Plentiful For Scouts In Camp

Girls Look For Better Weather During This Second Week Of Camp Period

Second week in the Girl Scout camping season is underway, and the schedule of activities is a full one for the remainder of this week, according to members of the camp staff.

The girls, camped at the Lawrence County Boy Scout Camp, are hoping for better weather this week, in order that their two weeks camping period will not all be marked by rain. The rain and high wind of last week went a long way to halt a number of the activities at the camp and for this reason the girls will be going double-quick time to catch up this week.

Miss Helen MacLean, camp director, reports that all the girls are happy and contented, and are enjoying handicraft, archery, hiking, nature study, swimming, water front activities and out-door cooking at the beautiful camp site.

Says Science Has Disproved Many Rules On Health

Find Old-Fashioned Rules Have No Scientific Foundation

(International News Service) BERKELEY, Cal. — "Do you still cling to old-fashioned health rules which have no scientific foundation?"

Dr. Arthur H. Steinhaus, professor of physiology at Williams College and a member of the University of California Summer Session staff, answering the question, declared that they can be forgotten.

"Too often health rules were merely devices designed to force the prejudices of one generation on to the next," he stated.

Here are a few of the rules which Dr. Steinhaus says science has proved false:

Is it all right to drink water with meals? "Earlier views held that it was harmful because the stomach juices were thereby diluted. Experimentation has proved that water is one of the best stimulants to stomach secretion. Digestion is improved."

Is there any danger in eating at irregular times? "The traditional three square meals a day is purely a matter of convenience. Much more sensible would it be to eat whenever we become hungry. For young children and certain adults who suffer terrible hunger pangs, five, six or seven light meals per day would be more effective."

Trailer-Truck Is Virtually Buried As Earth Gives Way

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Aug. 19.—A street cave-in virtually buried a trailer-truck today as the latest Pittsburgh district damage attributed to continued heavy rains.

The driver of the truck, Joseph Miller, 36, dug out of the debris-littered cab. He suffered cuts and bruises.

The rear end of the heavy vehicle fell 12 or 15 feet when the ground around a sewer slipped away. When the truck came to rest, only the motor was above street level.

Fog which accompanied the rain around Pittsburgh halted air transport traffic at the County Airport last night. Transcontinental and Western Airlines planes by-passed Pittsburgh, while Pennsylvania-Central Airlines reported two Pittsburgh-bound ships were grounded at Washington and Cleveland.

May Eliminate Tax On Broadcasting

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—James L. Fly, chairman of the federal communications commission, testified before the Senate finance committee today that it is "dubious" whether the tax on radio broadcasting should be retained in the $3,200,000,000 House-passed tax bill.

Answering questions by Sen. Davis (R., Pa.), Fly said that the tax on radio broadcasting might lead to a similar levy on newspaper advertising. He said that newspapers are now receiving a "heavy subsidy" from the government through the second class postal rate which does not "equal" the cost to the government for the mailing service.

Heavy Tax
Fly estimated that the proposed tax levy on radio broadcasting revenue would yield about $4,500,000 per year. The tax provides for five percent on income between $100,000 and $500,000; ten per cent between $500,000 and $1,000,000; and fifteen per cent on all above $1,000,000.

Fly said that the radio industry is "already shouldering burdens" in the defense program and pointed out that it gives free time to discussion of public questions.

Maurice Lynch, financial secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor, which operates station WCFL, said that the proposed tax would "ruin" the station. Lynch said that until 1940 the station operated at a loss. In 1940 the station made a profit of $20,163, he said.

Harold A. Lafont, president, National Independent Broadcasters, said the proposed tax would cut into the operating fund of independent stations whose incomes are in excess of $100,000.

"The effect of this proposed tax on the quality of programs might not be serious, except for the fact that we are giving an enormous amount of time, in this period of national crisis, to government activity," La Font said.

Competitive Business
Ellsworth C. Alvord, representing the National Association of Broadcasters, asserted that the radio broadcasting industry "is a truly competitive business."

McNutt Scores Isolationists

(International News Service)
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 19.—Scoring isolationists as "creators of conditions which breed war," Social Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt left a plea before Americans Monday to unite behind their government "until the mailed fist of the aggressor has been stayed throughout the world."

"In a world of total war," McNutt declared in an address at the four-day convention of the American Legion, "there can be no neutrality. Hitler has started out to conquer the world. Every nation in it has but two alternatives—it must align itself with him in a craven hope of sharing the plunder, or it must oppose him to defend its own security."

The current foreign policy of the United States, McNutt stated, "is guided by one consideration and one consideration alone—the security of the western hemisphere and the protection of the life and institutions we have built here."

Loch Ness Monster Story Is Revived

(International News Service)
LONDON, Aug. 19.—War news seemed to be dull in London Monday.

So the Daily Mail revived that hardy perennial, the Loch Ness monster.

According to the Mail, one J. MacFarlan-Barrow and his three children were boating on the Scotch lake when the monster popped up. The Mail said they saw the 15-foot monster for 10 minutes, diving and sending up a heavy spray as it played about in the water.

The Daily Mail facetiously called that recently Premier Mussolini's Milan newspaper, the "Popolo D'Italia," announced that the Loch Ness monster had been killed by a direct bomb hit in a German air raid.

West Coast Pilot Training School Is Going Full Blast

Stockton, Cal., Base Sets Rapid Pace In Turning Out Military Pilots

By HAROLD WALDORF
International News Service
Aviation Writer
STOCKTON, Calif. — At U. S. Army Air Corps fields up and down the Pacific coast they tell you: "We're plenty busy, but if you want to see a sky full of planes, take in the advanced school at Stockton."

The tip is 100 per cent correct. We learn in an all-day visit to this pace-setting hot spot of the 30,000 pilots-a-year program.

Located on the edge of the city, within a stone's throw of the lazy San Joaquin river, the school is setting remarkable records for fast, smooth production of commissioned fliers for Uncle Sam's 50,000-plane defense armada.

Win Coveted Wings
Here flying cadets assigned to the west coast air training center get the last 10 weeks of the 30-week course. They arrive as youngsters with 140 hours of elementary and basic flying and a fair idea of what it is all about. In the 70 days they are here a system that is beautiful to watch transform them into military pilots—men with wings. The graduates are rewarded with the coveted wings, a second lieutenant's commission and assignment to one of the new squadrons of the rapidly expanding air force.

Last winter the army arrived here to take over a knee-deep-in-mud flying field flanked by a lone adobe hangar. Today we find a vast training plant with some two-score buildings drawn up in neat, military lines, a huge fleet of slick planes, and a personnel of more than 2,500 officers, cadets and enlisted men.

Only One Fatality
Just building a plant like this is astounding, but the record book shows more:

Sixty-four thousand miles of flying a day. (Nearly three times around the world.) The first cadets take off at dawn and the last wing home anywhere from midnight to 3 o'clock the following morning.

But one fatality in more than 5,800,000 miles of flying (36,120 hours).

Air Raid Wardens To Be Appointed

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The office of civilian defense on Monday recommended that 148,000 air raid warden posts be established throughout the country as it set a deadline of Aug. 25 for cities to adopt a "model ordinance creating municipal defense councils."

It also suggested that "preliminary plans" be made for blackouts. The first statewide blackout is to be staged in New Mexico Sept. 12.

The OCD issued a 12-page pamphlet as a guide for setting up local organizations for "civilian protection." The booklet contained a copy of a model ordinance "made to fit the needs of the average city in the United States in the present emergency."

F. H. LaGuardia, director of civilian defense, in a statement asked that cities send a report on whether or not they have adopted the model ordinance by Aug. 25. He said that he must make a report to the president on Sept. 1.

This indicated that LaGuardia intends to seek presidential approval of a budget to carry out civilian defense work about that time. Unless cities report it is indicated, they may be left out when the time comes for disbursement of funds.

GERMANS OCCUPY UKRAINE WEST OF DNEIPEP

Take Red Ships, Many Prisoners

Nazi Command Claims Resistance Broken Entirely Except Around Odessa

RUSSIAN RETREAT BEING HAMPERED

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—German and Allied troops have occupied all the Ukraine west of the Dnieper River, a special bulletin from field headquarters asserted today.

Only in Odessa and along the southern Dnieper, where the Russians retain a few bridgeheads, does Soviet resistance continue, and the Russian "battle of escape" now is raging in full fury, the Germans said.

Almost Complete
Besides almost complete victory in the Ukraine, the Germans announced, the Nazis inflicted tremendous blows on the Russian navy when the Black Sea base of Nikolayev was taken.

A rapid-fire series of special communications, following a lull in which only generalities flowed from Ghr, made these claims:

"At Nikolaev the Germans captured the following warships under construction—one 35,000-ton battleship, one 10,000-ton cruiser, four destroyers, and two submarines.

"One gunboat was sunk, another damaged, and a third, in dry dock was captured.

"The general attack against Odessa has started, and there the Russians are suffering the most sanguinary losses."

During the battle for Uman, in the heart of the Ukraine, the communications went on, "an additional 60,000 prisoners, 84 tanks, 530 field guns, and large quantities of war materials were captured.

Fighting in the area of Kiev and Korosten also was very costly for the Soviets.

Heavy Losses
"Since Aug. 8 they lost 17,750 prisoners, 142 tanks, 123 guns, one armored train, and much other war material.

"In the attack on Odessa, the German Luftwaffe disabled nine large Russian troop transports and heavily damaged three warships, among them a heavy cruiser."

Near-completion of the Ukrainian campaign was accompanied by swift eastward advances while the German air force incessantly bombed and machine-gunned the retreating Russians in attempts to cut off their retreat.

Leaving the hammering of Odessa to the Rumanians, and frustration of sea escape to the Luftwaffe, German blitz troops reportedly swept forward from Krivoy Rog until the Dnieper itself was within range of Nazi heavy guns.

This swift advance to the bustling American-created Hydro-electric city on the Dnieper, German military spokesmen said, enabled the Germans to blast to pieces all large-scale efforts of the Russians to salvage their troops and equipment for a firm stand on the opposite banks of the stream.

So far as observations have been able to establish, river transportation facilities in the attacked area are sparse. Throughout the night the Reds used every means, including rafts and rowboats, to get across the Dnieper. Practically all the Russians' equipment was left behind, according to German accounts.

British Confirm
London, Aug. 19.—British official sources today virtually confirmed German assertions that nearly all the Ukraine has been occupied by the Nazis and their Allies.

Britain admitted that the pace of the German advance in south Russia has been "considerably fast" in the last few days.

Latest reports indicated that at least 48 hours ago the Germans were still some 30 miles from the most easterly swing of the Dnieper.

But government authorities admitted that all hope of checking the German advance west of the Dnieper had been abandoned.

These quarters emphasized that the Russians now are concentrating on organizing the defense of the Dnieper itself, for the river will be the most important point in the Russian war, as it is the final line of defense for protection of the rich areas to the east as far as the Don River.

Unique Plan To Save Gas

For the sake of gas economy, Cosmo club members will "double up" in autos Wednesday night when they take their families to their annual corn and wiener roast at El-Rio Beach.

"We'll save a little that way," President Nathan J. Love explained. "It won't inconvenience anybody."

and then, too, we take too many cars on trips like that. We'll know what severe gas rationing would be like."

Roller skating will entertain the Cosmo throng at the beach. Chairman Jack Gold and his entertainment committee have arranged "swell eats."

Vitamin pills are good only as pinch-hitters. Tests on soldiers show they can't take the place of vitamins in good rations.

Fathers Of Brides In Britain Give Up Clothes Coupons

Must Yield Own Clothes Coupon To Provide Trousseau

By CHARLES A. SMITH International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON.—There's no fun any longer in being the father of a blushing bride—at least in England today.

English fathers, besides paying for their daughters' weddings, now have to hand over their clothes coupons for the dresses and trousseaux.

That's the only way the modern English bride is able to manage, the flowing glory of traditional wedding dress, in spite of war restriction.

On the great day of his daughter's life, 1941, father now has to give up, in effect: One pair of socks, two handkerchiefs, and a vest. For the seven coupons thus represented, his daughter can buy her wedding dress.

And there's hope for father, for the Board of Trade has definitely decided not to allow extra clothes coupons for brides.

Few fathers are escaping, for among a large number of weddings in the London area at least, it was estimated that most brides still dress for the altar in the traditional white satin gown with train, orange blossom, and veil.

Some of the brides, with an idea to coupon economy, are borrowing the train dress and veil from friends. More and more made-over wedding gowns are parading before the altar, since brides are realizing that mother's wedding dress, altered here and there to conform with modern ideas, is sufficient for the brief period the wedding gown is worn.

And certain incongruous details are creeping into the modern wedding dress here. Shoes mean coupons, so some brides, figuring their long gown hides their feet, are not troubling to go to the altar in the usual white kid or white satin shoes.

Food rationing is another problem of brides. Local food officers have the discretionary power to issue extra rations for wedding parties. The majority issue very little. In the Lewisham area of London, the food officer issued an extra quarter of a pound of tea, half a pound of sugar, and half a pound of butter for 40 guests.

Rebut is that mothers entertaining wedding guests are asking the guests to bring their own supplies.

NEST OF WASPS OF DINOSAUR AGE FOUND IN UTAH

(International News Service) WASHINGTON.—The old riddle of the chicken and the egg now gives way to a new question: "Which came first, the bug or the blossom?"

The Smithsonian Institution revealed an 80,000,000 year-old nest of wasps was found in southwestern Utah. The fossil dates back to the dinosaur age.

Technically, the Institution believes that the blossom was the first to originate. Discovery of the nest of wasps leads them to think that the flower and pollen carrying insects evolved about the same time in a chthonian combination which has decided nature ever since.

Apparently the nest fell into mud which covered it, forming a mound. The original material of the mound soon disappeared but the form remained. The mud was afterward bound together in an iron solution, resulting in a hard mass in which the form would be preserved for any length of time.

BOXER SEEKS POLICE JOB

(International News Service) NEW ORLEANS.—Jimmy Perrin, the little New Orleans barber who claims the southern lightweight crown, is ready to change vocations again if an application of his is accepted by police authorities.

Perrin has applied for appointment on the city police force. He will abandon the ring if appointed, he said.

News Briefs From City Hall

Mayor Charles B. Mayne today asserted police and he propose to protect the merchants of this city. The declaration was made during a hearing of charges of peddling without a license which was preferred by police against Ben Nadler and Louis Kendis, from out-of-town. They reportedly had silverware, dishes and other articles in a car. The men claimed orders had been taken. One said he was a salesman the other a collector. The mayor adopted the position that they were guilty of peddling because neither grew or manufactured the articles, himself. They were given the privilege of taking out a mercantile and peddler's license or paying a fine. They promised to pay the fine.

Police sought a peeper in South Pine street, last night, they said today.

Peter Isaac, 12 West Reynolds street, has been granted permission by the city to erect a garage at an estimated cost of $90, at that address and A. W. Fowler, 212 East Cherry street, also received sanction to erect a combination frame dwelling and garage at an estimated cost of $700.

City council has authorized a City Council of defense to be under the jurisdiction of the Lawrence County Council of defense. It is likely that the names of the city branch will be announced soon.

As many members of council as deem it advisable will attend the coming convention of Cities of the Third Class league at Hazleton in the latter part of this month. Their expenses will be paid by the city. Authorization for the trip was voted following a motion to this effect by Finance Director James L. Fink. During the convention proceedings matters of vital importance to Cities of the Third Class are discussed.

Chief of Police Willis G. McMullen has been notified by almost a score members of the city police department they propose to undergo an examination as an operator of a police radio. The city was authorized the purchase of radio equipment for a one car two way radio system. In time all of the cruiser cars will be similarly equipped and the police who drive or ride the cruiser cars will be required to be licensed in order to use the radio. It was reported at police headquarters today.

Burglars were on the loose last night and according to indications some of them have that maldy known as "Sweet Tooth." For instance at Ruscetti's grocery, "table street, a padlock was removed from a side door and ice cream, cake, cigarettes and some soap disappeared. M. J. Kegg also reported the theft from 325 North Mevers street of tools. This theft was committed during the absence of the family.

Approximately one half dozen boys are in for a stiff time of it when they face Mayor Charles B. Mayne in Boys court. They were accused last night of having "towed" the Abraham residence at 710 Arlington avenue. It is very unlikely that His Honor will permit this pernicious habit to get a start. Annually gardens are raided for vegetables which are hurled against automobiles and houses and Mayor Mayne and Police Chief McMullen intend to stop the practice in its infancy.

POLICE HAVE ODD WAY OF COUNTING CROWDS OF PEOPLE

(International News Service) NEW YORK.—One million crowd the beach as the thermometer soars. Take it from the police—that figure, and the scores of other crowd estimates you see, are accurate. The police don't guess, they know almost exactly how many people there are in a crowd.

The method was explained today by Chief Inspector Louis F. Costuma of the New York police department.

At Coney Island, for instance, police check subway turnstile meters then go to the parking lots and count the cars. They figure three persons to a car.

If it's a parade they're estimating they know that men marching 12 abreast will pass by a given point at the rate of 5,000 an hour.

The spectators at the parade are also a matter for simple arithmetic. Police know the area of the sidewalks and curbs block by block and they figure one person to every three square feet.

CONFERENCE AIMS TO COLLECT MANY PIONEER BALLADS

(International News Service) DENVER, Colo.—Much maligned ballads of the "Bury Me Not on the Lone Prairie" and "Gitt Along Little Dogie" type have finally found a champion.

No less august a body than the Western Folklore conference recently convened at Denver university for the sole purpose of collecting and preserving these sentimental songs for posterity.

The conference—which lists among its members such experts on early Americana as John A. Lomax, consultant of the folksong archive at the Library of Congress, and Louise Pound, faculty member of the University of Nebraska—have determined that songs of this type must be doomed to oblivion or suffer devastating change.

Oklahoma Girl Victim Of Fiend

Oklahoma Officials Hunt For Fiend Who Killed 18-Year Old Girl

FIND NUDE BODY ON CEMETERY GRAVE

(International News Service)

CHANDLER, Okla., Aug. 19.—Authorities spread a police dragnet throughout Oklahoma today and asked law enforcement officers of nearby states to be on the alert as an intensive hunt began for the cruel killer of an 18-year-old girl whose nude body was found in the Chandler cemetery.

The victim was Billie Grayson, popular choir singer and local beauty, whose body had been laid across a grave, with the head propped up against a tombstone.

Rode With Stranger

Sought as the killer was an unidentified motorist who picked up Miss Grayson and Helen Grandstaff 12-year-old daughter of a neighbor, about 11 p. m. Sunday as they were walking from nearby Warwick to the farm of Gene Duncan, where Miss Grayson was living. The girls had gone to Warwick to attend evening church services.

Helen told police that she and Miss Grayson accepted the ride when the motorist stopped and offered to take them home. They did not know him, the child said, but he related that he was a former resident of the locality and knew it well.

They had been riding only a few moments, Helen said, when the man stopped the car and began struggling with Miss Grayson. Helen managed to jump out and ran to the home of a neighbor. The family did not realize the seriousness of the situation, however, and persuaded Helen to spend the night with them.

Yesterday morning the body was found. Police said the girl apparently had been strangled. Her clothes were strewn both inside and outside the cemetery.

PROJECTS PLANNED

LONDON.—Among the projects ready to be taken up in London after the war is the linking of the Atlantic and the North sea by a canal through the Pennines. Another is to provide London with 400 acres of new docks by straightening the bends in the Thames with by-pass canals. A third is a much-discussed waterpower promotion to industrialize the Highlands of Scotland.

Wrong, Mr. Lincoln!

You were right, Mr. Lincoln, ONLY because you were talking about the people of a DEMOCRACY. About a people who were well informed, who had NEWSPAPERS that gave them ALL the news, BOTH sides of every story.

Nobody CAN fool all the people of a democracy all the time. They have too many FACTS and too much INFORMATION gained from their newspapers to stay fooled by anybody for long.

But if you were talking about the people of a DICTATORSHIP, Mr. Lincoln—then you were WRONG! ALL of them CAN be fooled all the time. The people of a dictatorship are BADLY INFORMED. Their newspapers AREN'T free to tell them the truth about what's going on—they haven't got the FACTS and the INFORMATION they need to KEEP from being fooled. If they had, their countries wouldn't be dictatorships. They'd have dropped their dictators over a cliff long ago...

Many things have changed, here in America, since Abraham Lincoln's time. Our newspapers have played a big part in that change. But the JOB our newspapers do hasn't changed at all. Our newspapers go right on, year after year, giving us the information we need to govern our country the way we want to govern it, giving us the FACTS we need to choose the products we want to buy, where to buy them and how much to pay for them.

With your support, they'll keep right on giving us that information and those facts. And as long as they CAN give them to us, as long as they CAN print ALL the news, BOTH sides of every story, NOBODY will be able to fool ALL of us ALL the time—and no dictator will be able to get to first base in OUR country!

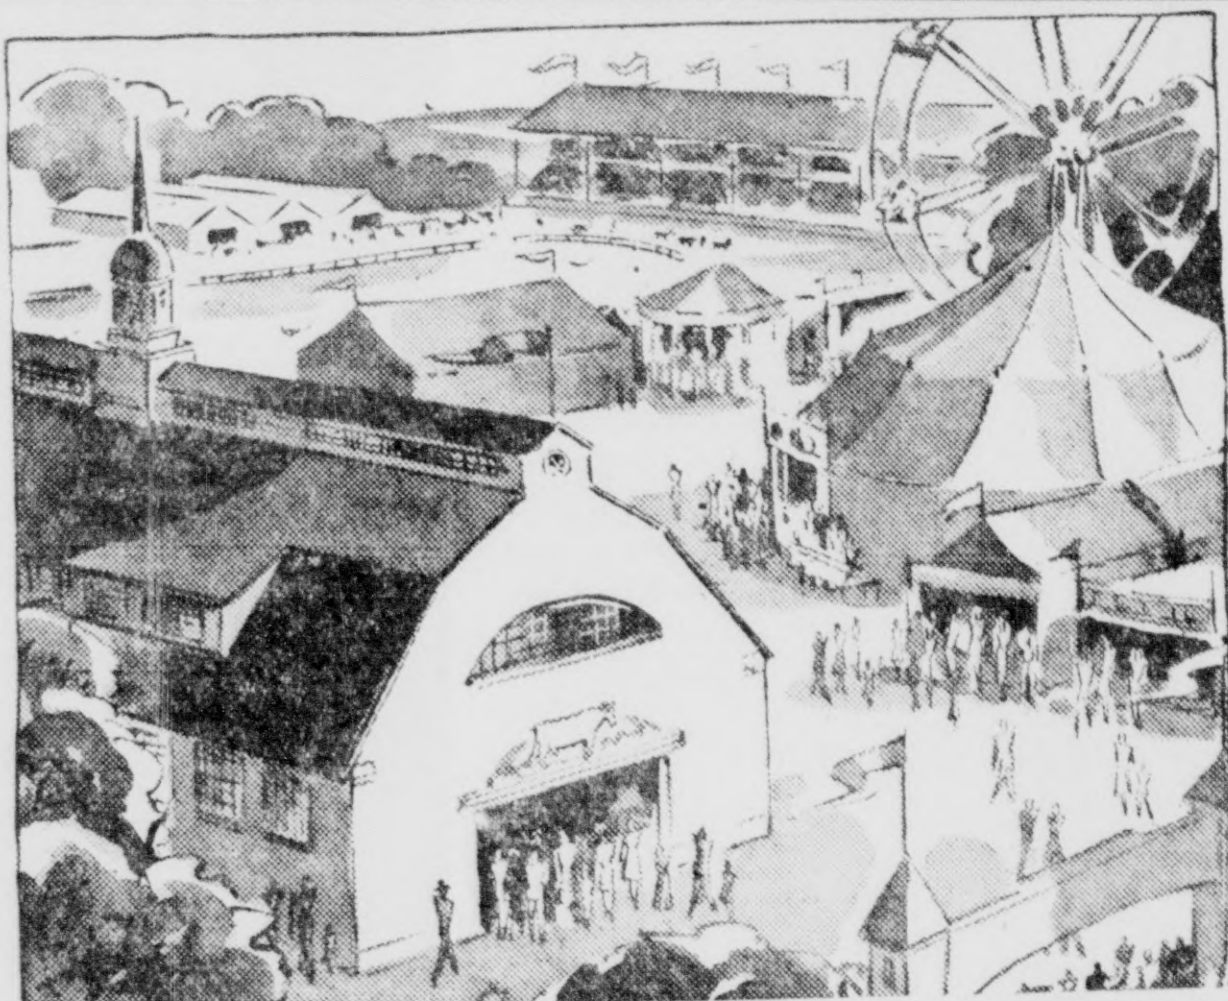

A letter from those of you who share our views will hearten us. A letter from those of you who disagree will chasten us. And newspapers, if they are to serve you well, need both the heartening and the chastening of an alert readership. Address the publisher of this newspaper.

Over 320 newspapers are carrying this message to 10 million subscribers today. Newspaper Publishers Committee, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York.

Fourteen Portersville Youths Make Thousand Mile Tour Of Pennsylvania

Following the idea of "Seeing Pennsylvania First", fourteen members of the Portersville Chapter accompanied by their instructor, Howard Irons, have just completed a thousand mile four-day tour of Pennsylvania. The tour covered many of the most interesting points in the state and included stops at every point of interest on the journey.

All the members returned home from the tour with the desire to go again next year and it is the hope of the chapter that each year a trip such as this might be planned so that other parts of the nation can be seen.

The members who were on the trip are: Ted White, Fred Shields, Mervin Druschel, Victor Wimer, Jack Kerr, Richard Lederer, John Duncan, Arthur Wimer, John Cheeseman, Earle Gongaware, Merle Gongaware, Blaine Shideman, Charles Scheideman and Harold Barkley.

White Pine Cones To Be Abundant

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 19.—An abundant crop of white pine cones is assured in Pennsylvania this year, according to W. E. Montgomery, Chief of the Bureau of Management, Department of Forests and Waters.

Reports received from District Foresters in the central and northern sections of the State are to the effect that "the white pine seed crop this year is heavier than usual. Two years are required for a white pine cone to mature and when ripe is from five to ten inches in length. To obtain the seed it is necessary to collect the cones before they become too ripe on the trees or before the scales open and permit the seeds to fall out. The best time to collect the cones is from about the middle of August to the middle of September, as after this later date many of the seeds are released. One of the safest ways to judge when the cones are ripe is to watch the action of squirrels. Pine seed is a favorite food of these little animals who cut the ripening cones from many trees and store them away.

The State Forest nurseries will require 500 pounds of white pine seed for sowing during the spring of 1942. As a result of the favorable seed year it is planned to gather 1500 bushels of cones which will practically fulfill the requirements for the next two years. A bushel of pine cones usually produces one pound of cleaned seed which is capable of germinating approximately 5000 seedlings.

Mr. Montgomery states that over 58,000,000 white pine seedlings have been raised in the Department nurseries since 1899, which have been planted on private and public lands within Pennsylvania.

DRIVE TO REBUILD PERRY'S FLAGSHIP DOOMED TO FAIL

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG.—The U. S. S. Niagara, flagship of Commander Oliver Perry on the Great Lakes during the War of 1812, appears headed for the limbo of forgotten ships.

More than a century old, the historic frigate lies on Presque Isle, near Erie, incomplete and for the time being abandoned. An attempt was made to rebuild her during the past year but funds are exhausted.

The old ship may never be completely rebuilt, according to state historian S. K. Stevens, because the Pennsylvania Legislature failed to appropriate money for that purpose.

The Niagara, from whose decks Perry opened the immortal message, "we have met the enemy and they are ours," seemed doomed to spend her remaining days on land, propped up on stilts. The Pennsylvania Historical Commission, which sponsored the vessel's reconstruction, is hopeful that the Niagara can be equipped with her old cannon and used as a museum for 1812 relics.

Great Horned Owls Kill Their Partner

Through the columns of "The News" Owen Fox has occasionally dealt with the activities of the animal and birds within the animal house enclosure, at Gaston Park. Among the collection are the great horned owls.

In the latter's wild state, they are an active savage killing bird, and in confinement they seem not to lose any of this trait.

Several weeks ago, another horned owl was added to the pair that have occupied the house for some time. They seemed to get along well as long as the three birds were on the perching rail, but when the new bird left the rail and dropped to the ground, the other birds would invariably attack him. On a number of occasions, Mr. Fox has parted these birds during the conflict, hoping that their relations would eventually become more cordial.

A few days ago, at noon, the two older birds attacked the newcomer while it was on the ground, like the Nazis on the small nations. One of the birds with its talons, pinned the new bird's feet to the ground while the other grasped the ground bird by the head and tore it from its body. That done, Mr. Fox states, it proceeded to swallow the head whole. The other bird mounted the dead bird's body, tearing the feathers off the body soon looking as if it had passed through a thrashing machine, a gruesome sight.

Cleveland Indians Drop Night Battle To Senators, Are Too Far Behind

DODGERS BEAT PITTSBURGH 6-5

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The Cleveland Indians, long since out of the race for the pennant, today had reached a new low—fourth place in the American League standings—and the New York Yankees were just that much nearer to the pennant they soon will clinch beyond the remotest mathematical chance. Along with the Indians, the second place Chicago White Sox and third place Boston Red Sox have been eliminated to this extent.

The Yankees have won 80 games and lost 39, leaving 35 on their schedule, of which they need only 18 wins against 17 defeats to finish with 98 victories and 56 defeats, under which circumstances they could be nosed out by a single game—if any one of the three contenders wins all its remaining games.

Senators Top Tribe

A streak of 37 straight in their remaining games would give the White Sox a final compilation of 99 wins and 55 losses, which figure the Red Sox could duplicate by taking their remaining 39 or the Indians could match with a sweep of their 40 remaining games and the finish. Think up all the fantastic sports possibilities you can and you won't find one less likely than any one of those three other clubs getting up there now, to overcome what statisticians reveal is the greatest lead ever held by a club at this stage of the proceedings.

Getting worse as they go along the Indians last night lost to the Washington Senators by 4 to 1 in the only American League game played yesterday and with that dropped behind the Red Sox. Steve Sundra hurled for the Senators and allowed only seven hits, including Ken Keltner's 19th home run.

Hot Pennant Fight

Quite obviously this is going to be another of those years when one club will go into the series relaxed and rested after having coasted through the stretch, as the Yankees are doing, and the other club will get into the big classic wearied and worn from the tough grind.

That National League struggle remains nip-and-tuck, if we may coin a deathless phrase. The Brooklyn Dodgers blasted the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6 to 5, by virtue of Pete Reiser's ninth inning homer, and with that the Flatbush flock moved to a full game lead over the idle, second place St. Louis Cardinals and helped to push the Pirates down into fourth place.

Reds Take Two

The Cincinnati Reds advanced ahead of the Buccaneers by beating the Philadelphia Phillies, 13 to 5, and 5 to 4, the latter victory being scored by Junion Thompson. The Phils made eight errors in the opener.

The New York Giants bounced back with verve from recent debacles to twice trouble the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 4 and 7 to 1. Hal Schumacher turning in a seven-hitter and Cliff Melton a four-hitter for the Giants. The latter was aided by an amazing—by the Giants—blast of three home runs contributed by Arnovich, Young and Jurgens.

Morgan Doesn't Like Southpaws

By JACK MAHON

(International News Service Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Who was the most unusual fighter you have ever seen and which was the most unusual fight?

These were the questions which popped into our mind today as we studied into the record of Morgan, the man of 300,000 well chosen words, duly patrolling his post as chief life-guard along Jacobs Beach.

Morgan, who has been known to remain silent as long as twelve straight seconds when a fist argument raged, scratched the back of his neck and said: "I've seen everything that could be seen in the fight business and that's a tough question but, offhand, I'd say the Deacon was the most unusual fighter I've ever seen."

The Deacon, let us hasten to add, was Tiger (Deacon) Flowers, former world's middleweight champion. The Deacon was a colored man and a preacher. What did he have that was so outstanding?

"What did he have?" said Morgan. "Well for one thing he was a southpaw and all southpaws get away with murder. There isn't a southpaw in my book—and that's going back through 40 years of watching some 5,000 fights, who could really fight. Those guys get away with their awkward manner, speed and an occasional punch."

"They don't know how to hold their hands right, in fact they don't know how to do anything right but they get away with it because, to the average fighter, they do everything backwards."

Prays For Opponents
"And listen," continued Dumb Daniel, "the Deacon used to pray for each of his opponents. I worked in his dressing room and saw him get down on one knee. He was asked what he was doing and replied, 'I am praying that nothing happens to my opponent.'"

"He used to do the same thing in the ring. He didn't get on his knees but he stood with his head bowed before every bout and prayed for his opponent. It always struck me funny that a guy could pray for another guy and then go out and knock his brains out."

Morgan added that Flowers' stance (something like one of those voodoo with doctors) was enough to scare anyone and recalled, that on two occasions, the prayers did the Tiger absolutely no good.

"You see, he fought Jack Delaney once in the new Garden," said Dan, "and he went through the whole routine. So Delaney stiffens him. Now I think this will prove to the Deacon that you need more than prayers and a dance to beat Delaney but, when they are re-matched, Flowers does the same thing. So Delaney stiffens him again. He sure was the most unusual fighter I ever seen."

Time-Keeper Ends Bout
Mr. M. was then asked to name one of the most unusual fights he ever witnessed. This amounted to asking a six year old girl which kind of ice cream she liked best, chocolate or vanilla, but Daniel never was found wanting in the answer department.

"I think the Max Baer-Tom Heeney fight was one of the screwiest I ever saw," replied Morgan. "In the third round Heeney was rushed through the ropes by Baer. He climbed back, after a lot of trouble, and was kneeling in the ring listening to the count of referee Jack Dempsey. As Dempsey reached eight the time-keeper jumped up and shouted, 'He's out. He's out.'"

Dempsey looked around and called to me. I was working in Heeney's corner and told Jack he not the time-keeper, was supposed to be the referee and to let the fight continue.

"He didn't do so and Heeney, though able to go on, was declared knocked out in the third."

"I ran to the time-keeper and asked what he meant by his action. He said, as he arose to start the count, his pants caught on a nail and that he was allowing two seconds for the time it took to untangle himself. Dempsey didn't learn about that till later. When he did he was furious."

GAME NOT COMPLETE
The Elders and Moose city league postponed game played last night at Marshall field ended in the last of the third on account of darkness, with the Elders ahead 6 to 5. The game will be re-played at a later date.

TWO GAMES WEDNESDAY

Ellwood City will play Wampum at Wampum and Hillsville will oppose Bessemer at Bessemer, at 5:45 p.m. Wednesday. Both are Lawrence County Baseball league games.

Racing To Start Here Wednesday

Three Harness Races And Running Races Wednesday, Thursday

U. S. TROTTERING RULES TO GOVERN EVENTS

Fans who like harness racing and also those who appreciate the runners will get an opportunity Wednesday and Thursday to see both at the New Castle Fair track, according to Secretaries A. C. Shoaf and Joe Rick. Six races, three of which are carded both days.

At 1:30 p.m. Wednesday they'll be started by Harry Gold of Beaver who will be returning to that position here following an absence of several years.

On Wednesday there will be a 2:25 trot, a 2:18 pace and a 2:16 handicap or faster trot, all for purses of $300 each, plus three running events.

On Thursday there will be three running races, a 2:25 pace, a 2:20 trot and also a 2:14 handicap or faster pace. The total purses each day for runners will be $250.

Entries for Wednesday will close at 11 a.m. today and Thursday's entries will close at 1 a.m. Wednesday. In other words, the entries must be in the secretary's hands 24 hours preceding the race.

No trot or pace will start without four starters and the U. S. Trotting association rules will govern with exception.

The handicap races will consist of three dashes at a mile with penalties and all trots and paces will be on three-heat plan which makes at least a mile. The runners events are a mile, six and five furlongs each day.

Pole positions will be drawn for each heat except in the handicap races. Barriers will be used in the handicap.

New Castle-Butler Will Play Tonight

All-Star Baseball School Teams Meet In Butler At 7:45 O'Clock

Confident of taking the first barrier in the western Pennsylvania tournament, New Castle's free baseball school all-stars eagerly await their clash with a highly touted Butler aggregation tonight at 7:45 o'clock (E. S. T.) in Butler.

A large New Castle delegation is expected to be in the stands as the young sandlotters take their positions on the Butler Yale's field.

The local stars were carded for a "last minute" rehearsal today with Glenn Wright and Al Krueh, instructors, looking on. The local squad of 18 players received complete new uniforms this morning, gifts of the Atlantic company.

Winner of tonight's clash faces the Johnstown-Altoona victor on Thursday, August 21.

Softball League Meeting Tonight

The final meeting of the season for the Lawrence County softball league will be held tonight at the "Y" at 8:30 o'clock, with Rocco P. Viggiano, president of the league conducting the meeting.

All franchise money will be returned tonight to the managers present.

The Ellwood City Sons of Italy won the 1941 championship, taking both the first and second halves.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Newsy bits about this and that—

That blimp you saw soaring lazily amid a murky sky Monday was piloted by Walter Komic, Walt, an Electric street athletic, gained his first experience as a pilot back in 1933 when he guided New Castle High's football juggernaut to the Class AA WPIAL championship.

As a full-back, the south side performed an exceedingly neat job of tearing an opposing line to shambles.

Walt next moved to Akron University. He was equally as effective in the rah-rah game. Now employed by an Akron firm, the localite is gunning for a pilot's license. He's gaining the required 350 hours of experience in the air by guiding the inflated bag around various cities. We're indebted to Nate Love for this news-laden bit of grit for the mill.

Three Lawrence Countians will bid for varsity football berths at Geneva College this fall. Howard and Norman Currie, ex-Shenango Township high products, and Frank Blaine, of Ellwood City, form the local delegation. Howard, who saw lots of action last fall, is a sure shot varsity man according to valley seers. Blaine and Norm Currie have their eyes on one of the end and guard posts.

Despite a rather dismal season "Bucky" Walters, of the Reds, is still one of the best "goose-egg" peddlers in baseball. In his first 183 innings of toll, the Cinchy flinger gave the opposition 151 small rubber tires.

While most major league pitchers lose between eight and 12 pounds every game they twirl, Bob Feller sheds about four pounds a tiff.

When the Yankees need a new outfielder, all they have to do is skip through the Holland tunnels and stop in Newark. Frank Kelleher, the Newark pride, should fit the bill. The 24-year-old right hander, grabbed off the campus of St. Mary's college (coast) is only leading the International League in homers, runs batted in runs scored and walks. He has laced 33 roundtrippers and needs three more to smash the league mark.

Rads-Valentinos Play Wednesday

Wednesday night at the Radiator field the National Radiator softball team will play the Valentinos an exhibition softball game at 5:30 o'clock.

Gabby Kendra and Ted Turro are asked to report to the Rad field for the exhibition game.

On Saturday at Idora Park the Rads are booked for an exhibition game with the Hakkie Lumber team of Struthers, Ohio at 1 o'clock and at 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening will meet the Golden Eagles, champions of the Mahoning Valley softball league at Idora Park under the arc-lights.

Elders-Croton Battle Tonight

Moose Will Play West Side

A. C. At Lee Avenue, Slovaks At Cedar Street

There will be four more games in the city baseball league this evening (weather allowing), with all games starting not later than 6 o'clock.

The league leading Moose Club will go to the Lee avenue field to play the West Side A. C. and will use either Rainey or Updegraff on the hill, opposed to Eddie "Feller" Stewart or Puller.

Elders Vs. Croton

Marshall field will be the scene of a "natural" tonight with Croton being slated to oppose the Elders. Manager Joe O'Leary will start Withrow or Davies, with Anderson also a possibility. For Croton it will be Stow or Chisfallo. This game should be a money as they are both from the Croton district and friendly rivals.

Slovaks Vs. Indies

Cedar Street field will be the mecca for the south side fans tonight for another "natural" that sends the Slovaks from the hill district into battle with their friendly rivals the Lawrence Indies from the other side of the tracks. These two teams always put up a battle and tonight will be no exception.

Manager Johnny Russu would not make known his starting hurler, but he has Majocha, Joe Wilk and Paul Morrison available for mound work. Manager Steve Gonda will in all probability start Balla or Ronet.

West Pittsburgh Vs. Ryanown

West Pittsburgh will journey to the Sampson Street field to battle the Ryanown team with Manager Dan-ny DeGenova choosing between Braky, Powell and Dombeck as his hurler, and with Ryanown probably starting "Twinkle-Toes" Campbell.

Postponed Games

President Carm DeLone requests league members to play off all postponed games.

Bush Grab Forfeit

Bush A. C. held on to fourth place by grabbing a forfeit at the expense of the Elders A. A.

The Elders reported with only six men, according to reports received by The News sports department.

Louis Claims His Fortune Is Over-Estimated

Whereabouts Of Champion On June 19 And 20 Will Have Important Bearing

JOE RETICENT ABOUT ANSWERING

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—The whereabouts of heavyweight champion Joe Louis on June 19 and 20 loomed importantly today at the hearing on the divorce bill and alimony demands of the Brown Bomber's estranged wife, the former Marva Trotter.

The hearing opened yesterday before Master in Chancery Dwight S. Bobb, and initial testimony dealt principally with Louis' contention that he is not nearly as wealthy as his wife claims, and that anyway he had given her so much money during their congenial years that she should be quite well financially.

Different Track
Today, however, it was promised by the champion's counsel, William H. Temple, the defense would take a different track. Late yesterday Temple asked Mrs. Louis if it was not true she had been together with Joe on June 19 and 20. Mrs. Louis' attorneys objected to the question and for the time being it was passed.

"But we'll get an answer to that today," Temple said. "Mrs. Louis charges in her suit that Joe was cruel to her, and that as a result they separated April 19. Now if she took him back on June 19 and 20, that would amount to condoning his previous acts. It would have some bearing on the divorce bill, and on the alimony proceedings we are trying to settle here."

Joe himself testified during yesterday's proceedings, but for the most part his answers consisted of "I don't know." He didn't know just what his earnings had been in recent years; he didn't know how much he made from specific fights; and he didn't know how much he stood to make out of his fight with Lou Nova in New York next month.

Jerry Nugent Denies Pilot Change Rumor

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—Ger-ald P. Nugent, president of the Phil-adelphia, today spiced rumors that Manager Doc Prothro would be eased into the now vacant general manager's post for 1942 with Coach Hans Lobert taking over field management of the only Phils.

"There is no truth to the report," commented Nugent. "Prothro is now on a scouting trip of International League teams and he will be back the latter part of the week to take over the club."

The rumors gained wide circulation after the Phils, with Lobert directing, handed the Giants a double lacing on Sunday, 6-2, 18-2.

Croton Bags Pair From Flats Nine

Croton A. A. strung up two important City-County Independent Baseball League triumphs, winning a pair of slugfests from Clifton Flats, 13-10 and 9-7.

In the opening fray, Croton captured a 13-10 decision, due mainly to a five-run onslaught in the eighth inning. In the cabaret end of the program, the Croton clouters bagged the win in the first three frames by crossing the pay station eight times.

The losers dropped the Flats from a first place deadlock down to third place while Croton moved its belongings to the fourth place slot.

Score by Innings: R H E
Croton 400 300 051—13 20 1
Clifton Flats . . . 000 410 005—10 8 2

Batteries—Croton, S. Memo and Morgan; Flats, Smiley, Tyler and Lucas.

Second Game

Croton 323 001 000—9 16 3
Flats 510 000 001—7 6 2

Batteries—Croton, J. Memo and Manline; Flats, Hiler, Alfreda, Smiley and Alfreda, Palumbo.

CARDS PUNCHER

The Cards, as a team, are outthrusting the Dodgers by 10 points. St. Louis has even more of a margin on the Yanks, a likely world series foe, but trails New York in total runs.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEFALL

A little fire in the heater doesn't make the house feel too bad these cool damp days and nights . . . seems rather odd that one should need a fire in the middle of August . . . wonder if there is anything to this theory about the seasons changing . . . maybe in a few hundred years we will have summer in winter and winter in summer . . . or maybe in a few years it will be like it was in olden times? Who knows . . . but when we speak of olden times, that reminds us all that Wednesday will be "Old Timers Day" . . . Cascade Park will be the meeting place and the good old days will be talked to death then . . . so have fun boys and girls, have fun and don't eat too much.

Bicycle riders please ride carefully . . . you should obey all laws that pertain to the motorist . . . it will help you when you drive a car and it will help keep down the accident rate now . . . so parents . . . see that your child knows the traffic laws and you will save many a gray hair.

Some of the lads who didn't have too good of luck fishing in Canada early in the season are trying to break away for a few days the first of September . . . they have an idea that the fish will be feeling better and they bite better when they haven't a tooth ache . . . so don't be surprised if you hear some mighty big fish stories within the next four weeks.

The barometer of business is going up . . . at least for the air lines. . . . Nation-wide air express over eighteen major airlines hit an all-time high so far this year . . . More and more people are shipping by air . . . especially in this time of great history making . . . did you ever stop to think about the history we are making today . . . how all this war and defense will go down in the history books for the generations to come to study about . . . won't they have a great time remembering all these dates and incidents . . . things are moving much faster now than they ever did . . . we had trouble remembering dates that happened in Roman times.

Don't forget the classified ads . . . they will do the work of ten men at the wages of half a man . . . try these ads today.

Belgian Pilots Tell Of Escape In Stolen Plane

Repair Ship Under Noses Of German Sentries Before
Getaway

WORKED THREE MONTHS AT TASK

By MERRILL MUELLER
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

LONDON.—For three months, under the very noses of German sentries, two Belgian Air Corps pilots repaired a stolen plane at Antwerp and succeeded in escaping to England and their positions in the RAF today.

I talked to these two men, one a slight nervous blond youngster of 24 and the other a husky 25-year-old Flemish mechanical genius, just after their forced landing on English soil in their antiquated training plane and they told me of their miraculous work to escape from Belgium and fight with their "free" brothers.

It involved the one move they are not proud of—breaking parole, but they felt the rupture was made in a good cause.

Names must be hidden because the young men have relatives in Belgium who might be made to suffer for their almost unbelievable accomplishment.

Permitted To Move Freely
Shortly after the collapse of Belgium during the Blitzkrieg on the Western Front, the two men were put to work outside their prison camp and eventually won parole to move about freely.

They had recalled that the Belgian Air Force had an auxiliary field near Antwerp at which was kept an obsolete trainer for occasional flights of the local youth air corps. It was located in an old barn on a meadow which paralleled a main highway and near an important bridge pumping station.

One night they drove past the barn, checked the two sentries guarding the bridge and left the place. The next night they sneaked over to the barn behind the sentries' backs and examined the locks. They went home and made a key to fit the locks and the next night enjoyed their first victory—examining the plane itself. Let the older pilot tell it, as he told the story to me in French:

Found Plane Intact
"We found the plane intact and in good condition but without what you call flight instruments. We drained the oil to have it tested, spilled some and had to mop it up to leave no trace, and checked everything in the aircraft. Then we decided what instruments were needed."

"We went to our respective homes and worked on instrument making in secret—hoping our plane would not be discovered or moved. It was hard to make instruments but we managed after much delay."

"That statement is a modest estimation. The boys took nearly ten weeks to collect glass tubes, red ink, carpenter's level, sensitive springs for the construction of a turn and bank indicator, a climb and dive indicator and an air speed indicator. Then they stole two types of compasses, an altimeter, and a clock."

"They tested their instruments in their automobile or on their bicycle."

"We made several trips to the barn to check our airplane. Once the locks were changed but we made a new key. The oil from the engine was good but we needed gasoline. We wanted gasoline—German soldiers wanted money—it was an easy coup."

Carburetor Found Faulty
"At last we installed the instruments and one dark night pushed the plane from the barn for the flight—but the engine would not start. We hastily rolled the plane back fearing the sentries had heard us but somehow we were not discovered. We fixed the faulty carburetor."

"The next night the engine ran immediately but with so much noise that we took off over our friendly coasts without waiting to warn the engine. We hit the branches of two trees just clearing the end of the field and then for an hour flew over enemy territory with only searchlights—no guns bothering us. Over the sea, the engine failed and we dropped from 12,000 feet to 400 before it picked up again and we just managed to reach this country. I am glad it's over."

Examination of their aircraft proved the excellence of their plans; their instruments were faultless and on the wings—final gesture of defiance to the Germans—they had taken the pains to paint large Allied identification markings!

F. D. R. Denies No Bill Approval For Censorship

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—President Roosevelt, through his Secretary Stephen T. Early, on Monday denied that he had approved any proposed bill for imposition of war-like federal censorship of the press, radio, motion picture industries and on all forms of communications in and out of the continental United States.

The statement was prompted by the publication of an International News Service dispatch that the President had approved recommendations of the army and navy high command for a censorship law. The White House statement, however, was silent on whether Mr. Roosevelt had accepted the high command's recommendations. Early simply declared that the Chief Executive wished to deny that he had "approved any such bill."

Man 86 Will Be Air Raid Warden In Philadelphia

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—Despite his 86 years, Julius Wiener was duly registered today for service as an air raid warden in Philadelphia.

Skeptical police put the aged man through impromptu tests and found his hearing and vision were good. Wiener, a native Czech who once served in the Bohemian army, gave his age as 81 for official records, explaining:

"If I told them I was 86 they wouldn't have taken me. They don't want an old man like that."

MAJOR FILM STUDIOS BAR ALL VISITORS

(International News Service)
HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Disappointment waits the visitor who comes to Hollywood today with the hope of seeing his favorite movie star on the sets.

Under a recent edict, necessitated in part by the production of films for national defense, visiting privileges—to all except newspaper correspondents actually "covering" Hollywood—have been suspended by the major studios.

Explaining the ban, Y. Frank Freeman, president of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, Inc., said that army and navy films were under way at each of the studios, and that they contained secret material.

CAPTURED NAZI OFFICERS S W I M IN ENGLISH SURF

By FRANK BUTLER

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Hundreds of people who were allowed to swim in the harbor riot far from here, during the recent hot spell did not realize that among them were two German officers. The latter after being shown around town, were put into the local prison.

From their cell they could see the people bathing and sunning themselves on the beach.

They could not believe the bathers were mainly women and children enjoying absolute freedom and said so in no uncertain terms.

The British officer in charge consequently took them out of their cell, fitted them with flannel pants and sports shirts and took them down to the beach under escort.

While the escorts sat on the beach—apparently sunbathing—the two Germans went in to swim to the ignorance of the other bathers. They splashed around and played with some of the children.

The captured officers are given the same food as British officers. They were amazed when breakfast was served. It consisted of eggs, bacon and tomatoes, well up to standard.

One of the Germans is an intelligence officer and consequently is being well taken care of.
